Lincoln s Estimate of Andrew Johnson and Edwin M Stanton

Three days before the murder of Lincoln he had made arrangements for an afternoon ride with certain members of his family and the hour of two o clock was fixed upon   At that time the President not appearing word was sent to him that the party was waiting for him   He returned an answer that the Vice President had called upon him and that he should not be able to go   Johnson remained about two hours when the President joined his family and in conversation regarding the delayed ride remarked with much apparent concern   That miserable man! I cannot anticipate the troubles he will cause me during my second term of office '   Such were with scarcely a doubt the last words spoken by Lincoln concerning the present occupant of the White House, and spoken as they were in the privacy of his own family circle they were doubtless the full and free expression of his real belief

LINCOLN S LAST ESTIMATE OF STANTON

While the President was on his way back from Richmond and at a point where no telegraph could reach the steamer upon which he was a dispatch of the utmost importance reached Washington demanding the immediate decision of the President himself   The dispatch was received by a confidential staff officer, who at once ascertained that Lincoln could not be reached   Delay was out of the question as important army movements were involved   The officer having the dispatch went with it directly to Stanton s office but the Secretary could not be found   Messengers were hastily dispatched for him in all directions   This search was useless   and a positive answer had been already too much delayed by the time it had occupied   With great reluctance the staff officer sent a reply in the President's name   Soon after Stanton entered himself having learned of the efforts made to find him   The dispatch was produced and he was informed by the officer sending the answer of what had been done

' Did I do right   said the officer to the Secretary

Yes Major,' replied Stanton   ' I think you have sent the correct reply, but I should hardly have dared to take the responsibility '

At this the whole magnitude of the office and the great responsibility he had taken upon himself seemed to flash upon the officer and almost overcame him and he asked Stanton what he had better do, and was advised to go directly to the President on his return, and state the case frankly to him   It was a sleepless night for this officer, and at the very earliest hour consistent with propriety he went to the White House, Lincoln having returned late the night before, but was refused admission by the usher, who told him that the President had given strict orders to admit no one upon any pretence till after a certain hour   In vain did the officer urge the importance of his errand the usher would not take in his name, and he was about turning away when the President s youngest son came down stairs bade the officer good morning and on hearing he had been refused admission said that his father would certainly see the Major   Still the usher was not to be moved till the son went back himself, and returned with the message that the President would see him

Lincoln was reclining on a lounge as the officer entered, looking over a pile of papers   He appeared a little annoyed at the interruption, but stopped at once to hear the visitor's mission   The dispatch was shown him and the action upon it stated frankly and briefly   The President thought a moment, and then said "Did you consult the Secretary of War Major" ' The absence of the Secretary at that important moment was then related to Lincoln, with the subsequent remark of Stanton that he thought the right answer had been given, but that he himself would have shrunk from taking the responsibility

Lincoln on hearing the story, rose, crossed the room, and taking the officer by the hand, thanked him cordially, and then spoke earnestly of Stanton, as follows 'Hereafter, Major, whenever you have Stanton's sanction in any matter you have mine, for so great is my confidence in his judgment and patriotism that I never wish to take an important step myself without first consulting him

Such was the place held in the mind of Lincoln by a man for whose removal the plotters in the new party have been constantly striving ever since the notorious attempt at smoking out the Cabinet Ministers by a street serenade—to which attempt Andrew Johnson "that miserable man '—was a party.—Correspondence of Cincinnati Gazette,

Death-Dealing Implements

The Berlin correspondent of the London Times gives the following account of some murderous inventions just brought out in Europe

Industrious in his green old age as in his younger years Herr Von Dreyse the inventor of the needle gun, has completed several new weapons said to surpass the old ones in many respects The first is a rifle entirely of iron, with a semi circular hook where the butt end ought to be   By the shoulder fitting into this horse shoe like termination the aim is considerably steadied, an advantage of no small moment for ordinary shots, especially in the thick of battle   The barrel has a coating of some composite substance to prevent scorching the fingers after several discharges   It is three pounds lighter and seven shillings cheaper than the present needle-gun can be fired eight times in a minute, and, in the hands of an experienced marksman hits a man at the distance of a thousand paces   In addition to this one we have another specimen from the hands of the same ingenious gunsmith, looking exactly like the first only that the barrel is a little more bulky and the bore proportionately wider

The projectile belonging to this latter gun kills at a distance of fifteen hundred paces, and, in bursting into eight pieces at the moment of striking approaches in its effects the deadly execution done by the modern grenade   Ammunition wagons are as easily exploded by it as by shot thrown from a cannon, and as its weight admits of its being carried by men of ordinary strength, it is this rifle to which in the eyes of its originator ought to be accorded the palm   The internal mechanism of both rifles is that of the needle gun in an improved form   One of the amendments introduced is the rapid retreat of the needle after piercing the spiegel and igniting the cartridge, which not only adds to the celerity of the discharge, but also protects the needle from being burnt   It is the practice now to supply every soldier with a couple of reserve needles

But still a more remarkable instrument for the prompt and artistic transference of an animate being from the state of life to that of death than any of the foregoing has simultaneously with them left the famous workshop of Sommerda. There is a breech loading double barreled cannon with the ammunition chest inserted between the two tubes and semi circular hooks, such as before described fixed at the end   No more than one man is needed to work each barrel the ammunition being propelled towards the gunner by a simple process and falling into its allotted place directly as the valve is moved   Each barrel fires off on an average four shots a minute and two together accordingly discharging eight in that space of time   The few who have seen the instrument in operation speak of the effect both morally and physically of its continuous volley, as something tremendous   Dreyse has constructed specimens of different calibre corresponding to the three pounders and six pounders of the Prussian service   A cannon al projectile shot from the heavier sort was seen to penetrate an iron plate two inches thick and ignite the wooden frame behind at two thousand paces   For further details concerning these interesting productions, we shall have to wait till they are more freely circulated among the public   For the present the few models extant are in the hands of the War Office undergoing the strictest scrutiny by a special commission of artillery and other officers   Herr Von Dreyse was the only one who, while the world was marvelling at the merits of the needle gun as demonstrated in the late campaign was dissatisfied with the result obtained As he is comparatively contented with his own efforts I wonder what is the number of slain he counts upon

The impetus given to murderous inventions by the war is also noticeable in the appearance in the market of a new and superior powder   It is the discovery of a certain Herr Neumeyer at Taucha near Leipsic and if the half said in its praise be true is destined to rank among the many dangerous competitors of the old article that have lately courted public attention   In a series of experiments lately conducted before a number of professional gentlemen at Leipsic it is stated to have proved   First—That the new powder can only explode in a confined space   When freely exposed to the air it burns but does not go off This precludes explosion both intentional and spontaneous in powder magazines   Pressure or sudden shocks do not cause it to gain a quality which will also tend to preserve many lives now lost through carelessness   Third—It is more completely consumed by explosion than the common powder having but a trifling residue in the barrel   Fourth—It produces less smoke, attracts less moisture and is cheaper than that now in use   Fifth—its power of expansion is equal to the old article a ball from an ordinary rifle having repeatedly perforated a pine tree target three inches thick, at a distance of one hundred paces   I may add that all the qualities mentioned in its commendation are also claimed for the powder invented and manufactured in his own mill by Captain Schultze, at Potsdam   The latter product, however, which, among other ingredients consists of saw dust saturated with sulphuric acid, has the undeniable advantage of not being spoilt by water and moreover, projecting the ball farther, and with surer aim than the best sort of carbonic powder   It is fired by the slightest spark , but as its component parts may be stowed away separately, and are less mixed before being made into cartridges, the peril of explosion is likewise diminished

Political Calumny —An Interesting Reminiscence —A New York correspondent of the Providence Journal evidently a Washington reporter many years ago, gives the following interesting illustration of the rancor with which political controversies are sometimes conducted

Henry Clay once wrote a private letter to Judge Brooke, of Virginia which created a world of excitement and gave rise to multitudinous speculation   Nobody save Judge Brooke and Clay had the ghost of an idea in reference to the contents of the missive, but all the Democratic papers in the Union swore that it embraced matters which, if they could be got at, would prove to the letter the existence of what John Randolph denominated the   coalition between the Puritan and the blackleg '   Clay s friends were defiantly called on to produce the letter   Clay himself was importuned to permit its exhumation year after year by his immediate friends   and Amos Kendall avowed that he dared not bring it to the light, because, if given to the public it would convict Henry Clay of something next to treason

For a quarter of a century (from 1819 to 1844), that terrible letter was a bone of contention and every blackguard who felt disposed to insult the Noble Henry of Ashland, ' outrageously cast its ghost in his teeth, and screamed, " That letter convicting you of treason, or something very like it, you dare not show , we defy you, and demand its publication "

In 1844 Judge Brooke not Clay, but probably with his concurrence, brought forth the terrible letter, and at once demolished all the towering airy castles of the political demagogues   And what do you suppose it contained?

In the year 1819 Lord Byron published his first canto of ' Don Juan ' one of the most powerful and popular of all his publications though its morality, like Pope s 'Rape of the Lock, ' and Dryden s matchless 'Hinde and the Panther,'' was subjected to severe criticism if not to anathema   Lord John Russell, then in his prime and redolent of scholastic glory, sent Clay a presentation copy at the request of its author

Though Clay was neither a poet nor a devotee of polite literature, he read the copy sent him with high satisfaction, and subsequently sent it, with a commendatory note to his friend Judge Brooke, of Richmond   His letter was marked ' confidential,'' and of course the worthy Judge so observed it   Six years afterwards the existence of this confidential letter leaked out, and Thomas Ritchie, of the Richmond Enquirer, having got wind of it, gravely stated that if it could be produced it would prove the existence of a corrupt bargain between Clay and John Quincy Adams, which resulted in the election of the latter to the Presidency   It simply commended the genius of Lord Byron , but as "Don Juan" was the recipient of denunciation at the hands of the pulpit and press, Clay did not choose to have it known that he had spoken favorably of the genius and talents of its author   And for no other reason, added to an unwillingness to gratify a prurient and impertinent curiosity, Clay for five and twenty years insisted on his injunction of privacy, and quietly submitted to the most unjust and unfounded obloquy

Nothing but a Man —Grace Greenwood gives the following

In the spring of 1864 I attended the last morning reception of the season at the White House, taking with me my little daughter, who had an intense desire to see the good President who had set the poor slaves free   I had not seen Lincoln for more than a year, and as I drew near to where he stood, going patiently through his weary monotonous task of hand shaking, I wondered if he would remember my face among the countless faces that had beset and besieged him, or passed in mute review before him, since the pleasant evening on which I had conversed most freely with him and heard most of his easy, charming, cordial talk   But, before I could be presented, he gave me a shock of pleasant surprise by stretching his hand over the shoulder of a gentleman with whom he was conversing, and greeting me by name with the smile and tone of an old friend   When he perceived little A , the pleased look of a true child lover came into his eyes ' Is this your little daughter? he said ' How do you do, dear? ' As he took her hand, the child raised to his face her large brown eyes full of tender reverence   The look seemed to touch him he smiled a smile that was a benediction, then bent and kissed her   She blushed but said nothing till we had passed on a step or two, when she exclaimed ' Why, he is only a man, after all! '   Something in the tone struck the President, and he asked what she had said   When I repeated the naive remark, his worn face again lit by that sudden smile of quaint kindly humor so peculiar to him—that flash of soul sunshine that once seen could never be forgotten

I had not the opportunity to tell Lincoln of a scene in the past which this little incident brought to my mind   In a noble old New England town years on years ago, there was once a great gathering of people, to see no less a personage than the first great President of the Republic, who was to be received and entertained by the noble Governor of the State—the ' Brother Jonathan of the Revolution '   At last he came—the beloved ruler the hero without stain the patriot without flaw, the matchless gentleman, slowly riding beside the good Governor, between ranks of soldiers and files of citizens, bowing graciously though somewhat coldly to the right and left of him   Oh, father, ' cried a little dark-eyed boy to a gentleman who held him by the hand   I can t see him!   Please lift me up so that I can look over the people's heads "   The kind gentleman lifted him high in his arms, and the child looked full in the face of Washington   As he did so his own eager countenance fell, and he exclaimed,   Why father he is nothing but a man, after all! '   Washington heard, paused a moment, and with an amused smile, replied to the child,   Yes my little lad, nothing but a man   It seemed to me an odd coincidence that, at sight of our second Washington, my little daughter had repeated the simple thought and almost the words of her grandfather

Death at the Lighthouse —Geo N Davies, first lightkeeper at Race Rocks died on Friday night last after an illness of two weeks   For nine days the flag on the rocks was raised at half mast but it was not observed by passing vessels, and the man was without medical attendance during his illness   Davies was aged 39 years and came to this country in 1860, in the ship Grecian , having been appointed to the position by the Liverpool Board of Trade   He leaves a wife and two children   The body was brought up on the Sir James Douglas yesterday for interment The funeral will take place this day, at three P M from the residence of Mr J Costello Humboldt street — Victoria Colonist

Laying the Straits Cable —The British brig Ann Capt Stephens arrived in Royal Roads today in 195 days from Mauritius bringing 100 miles of the telegraph cable from the ship Egmont, which had put in to that colony in distress   The Egmont was discharging the remaining 400 miles of the cable having to pay £1,000 for putting down a coffer dam to contain it   She had not sustained much damage but was an old ship — Victoria Telegraph, 13th inst

Mr Nasby Preaches a Sermon—The November Elections

Post Offis Confedrate X Roads }
(Wich is in the Stait of Kentucky) }
November 16 1866 }

When the news uv the result uv the Illinoy election reached the Corners there wuz a feelin uv oneasiness wich wuz truly affectin but when the crushin intelligence arove that Hoffman wuz beaten in Noo York there wuz a prostration wich wuz only ekelled when the intelligence uv Lee s surrender reached us   We expected defeat in Illinoy, and some other Staits but we hed hopes that Noo York wood go Democratic that his Eggslency mite hev some show uv backin by the people, and consekently some excuse for continyooin to enforce his policy   But that hope wuz taken from us and uv the entire populashen I wuz the only one who had suffishent stamina to preserve the semblance uv cheerfulness, and that wuz on akkount uv my havin the post offis   Elections cood not take that from me—it is a rock wich the waves uv popular indignashen can t wash away thank the Lord, for ef they cood, how many uv us wood to day be holdin our places?   Still I felt over whelmed, and sorrowfully I entered Bascom's There, with their heads bowed in sorror, and teers flowin from their venrable eyes, sat Deekin Pogram, Elder Slathers and a few others uv the saints, who, ez I entered, mekanikally rose and stood before the bar , Brother Bascom, who wuz likewise bowed down with greef, set out the invigorator, mekanikally we dosed ourselves, and still in a daze, mekanikally I moved out without payin, Bascom being too full of sorrer to notis it.

It wuz deemed proper in view uv the grate calamity that services shood be held in the church, and at two P M , wich with us mite be sed to mean post mortem, we slowly and sadly filed in, the only sun in countenance in site bein that uv a nigger at the door, who wuz to wunst belted over the head for lookin happy and it was sung with techin pathos   After the weepin had subsided, and I got my feelins calmed down so ez to permit me to speak, I commenst explainin to em the causes of the result   It wuz, I sed a chastenin sent onto us for our sins , a stripin becoz we had exalted our horn in our pride , that gloryin in the possession uv the Post Offis, the Collectorships, the Assessorships and sich, we hed become vain glorious and puffed up and careless in performance uv dooties Ther wuz niggers in Kentucky agein about free, and impiously settin at naught the decrees uv Providence wich condemned em to be servants uv their brethren , and heer I digressed to elocydate a pint.   I hed seen strictures in a Boston paper on to the common practis of amalgamashun in the South, wich paper held up the practis to the condemnashun uv pious men.   "My brethren," sed I, them Boston Ablishinists hev no cleer under standin uv the Scripter   When Ham wuz cust by Noar, wat wuz that cuss? ' He shell be a servant unto his brethren '   Not unto strangers—not unto Phillistines or the Girgeshite, or the Millerite, but unto his brethren   How cood he be servant unto his brethren except through Amalgamashen? Unless we amalgamated with em, how wood the male niggers be our brethren?   Oh, my brethren, we wuz obliged to do these things that the Skripters might be fulfilled, and to the credit uv the Southern people, be it sed, that they never shrunk from the performance uv dooty   The per cent uv yeller niggers in this State attests how faithful Kentucky hex bin

I gave out the hymn,

"Broad is the road wich leads to death,"

But to resoom   We hev sinned in permittin skools to come in and unfit em for their normal and skriptural condishen, but these is not all. My brethren, go to Esq McGavitt's and get the township Bible, and search till you find this yer text

" And no man puttith new wine into old bottles, else the new wine doth bust the bottles, and the wine is spilled."

My brethren, wich is the bottles?   The Dimocrasy uv course, and the most of them may be considered old ones   We have acted as bottles, carrying about floods, not precisely wine but the modern substitoot therefor from our earliest infancy.   Wich is new wine?   The Ablishonists wich followed Johnson, uv coarse.   New wine is frothy —so wuz they   New wine fizzes—so did they Now wine has strength for a minnit—so hed they. New wine is unreliable—so wuz they   At Philadelphy the puttin uv this new wine into old bottles wuz accomplished—at that accursed place ancient Dimocrisy, wich beleeves in Ham and Hager, met and fell onto the nex uv Seward and Doolittle, wich invented ablishinism, and we mingled our teers together—the new wine wuz put into the venerable old bottle uv Dimocrisy, and notwithstanding we hooped it with Federal patronage it busted, and grate wuz the bust thereof, and the fragments of the bottles wuz prone onto the earth, and the new wine is runnin round permiscuous. So wuz the Skripter fulfilled

And my brethren while you are at the Squire's huntin up that tex, keep on till you find another, to-wit

"No man also soweth a piece uv old cloth onto a new garment; else the new piece that filleth it up taketh it away from the old, and the rent is made worse."

My hearers, Democrisy went to Philadelphia in a soot of gray which it hed bin a wearin for five years   It wuz trooly old, and ther wuz grevous rents in it, made mostly by bayonets and sich Oh, why wuznt we content to wear it?   Why wuz we not satisfied with it?   Agin wuz the skripters fulfilled   We patched up the Confedrit gray with Fedral blue , we put into the back, Seward , into the knees, Randall , into the shoulders, Cowan, and onto the seat, Johnson, and they wuz stitched together with Post Offises   But it didn't hold   The skripters wuz fulfilled—the old cloth wuz rotten, and one by one patches fell off, somewhat dirtied, and takin with em a part uv the old and the rents is bigger than before. Our coat is busted at the elbows, our pants is frayed round the bottoms, out of the knees, and from behind the flag uv distress waveth dreanly in the cold wind

My brethren, we will succeed when we stick to our integrity.   Wat wuz the yoose uv our assoomin what we did not hev?   Wat wuz the sence of our askin our people to vote for Kernels for Congris, wich hed, doorin the war, drafted their sons?   Wat wuz the use uv talking Constooshnel amendments ' to men who spored that internal improvements and a nashnel bank wuz still the ishoo?   Wat wuz the yoose of lettin go our holt on nigger equality wich is the rite bower, left bower and ace of the Democrisy, its tower uv strength, its anker and cheefest trust, and wich is easy uv comprehension and eminently adapted to the Democratic intelleck, and taking up questions wich will all be settled ten years afore they begin to comprehend em?   In breef, wat wuz the sentiment, my brethren, it puttin new wine into old bottles —uv patchin old cloth with new   Let us be warned and never repeat the fatle error

The congregashen dispersed somewhat sadly, but ez they gathered at Bascom's to discuss the sermon I wuz gratified at observin a visible improvement in their temper all around   Bascom hisself bussaled around lively, Deekin Pogram remarked that most probably it wuz unskriptooral to put new in old tubs but he didn't hev an idee that the prohibishen extended to new whisky, he'd risk it, bust or no bust, and he pizened hisself very much in the old style, and Elder Slather and Kernel McPelter so far recovered their sperits ez to hang the nigger I menshened in the beginnin ez lookin pleased at the church   The Corners is rapidly gettin itself agin

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 27, 1866.

Northern Overland Mail.

A regular mail by a direct overland route has long been one of the chief wants of the people of the Northwest coast. The circuitous route by which our Eastern mails have hitherto reached us has been the means of depriving them of nearly all their value. The time required for them to complete the whole round and reach their final destination, is usually about six weeks, and if a small part of them get through in a shorter time, the larger portion will be found to be delayed still longer. The route from Salt Lake City to the Dalles may be expected to supply us in less time; but probably the advantages of this route will not be felt to any considerable extent before next spring or summer. Another overland mail route independent of any now in operation, will doubtless be established early in the coming spring. Provision has been made for a new route from St. Cloud, Minnesota, to Helena, in Montana Territory. Connection will be made at Helena with the route now in operation from that place to Wallula. Allman & Co. are now running semi-weekly stages between Wallula and Missoula City, carrying the mails and connecting at the last named place with the stages of Oliver & Co., for Helena. It is purposed to commence running in the spring as often as three times, and probably six times a week. The route followed is that by way of Pen d' Oreille Lake, as it has been found impossible, even at the most favorable seasons, to drive coaches over the Mullan road. From Missoula City to Flat Head Agency the distance is about 22 miles; from Flat Head Agency to Cabinet Rapids, 160 miles; from Cabinet Rapids to Pen d' Oreille City, 50 miles; from Pen d' Oreille City to Spokane Bridge, 38 miles; from Spokane Bridge to Tukannon, 72 miles; from Tukannon to Wait's Mills, 20 miles. At all the above named points Postoffices have been established. From Wait's Mills to Walla Walla the distance is 20 miles, and from Walla Walla to Wallula about 30 miles. The mails have been going through on this route regularly since the first of December.

The distance from St. Cloud to Wallula by the route which it will be necessary to follow, is probably 1,400 or 1,500 miles. It is estimated by those who have studied the route and who have made the whole matter a subject of investigation, that the mails can be carried through during more than half the year in ten, or at most, in twelve days. The railroad has recently been extended from St. Paul to St. Cloud, so that the latter place now has railway communication with the eastern cities. Making all needful allowances for the difference between estimated time and actual time, there would seem to be no reason why we should not receive New York dates by this Northern route in twenty days at farthest. If the estimates which have been made are nearly correct, considerably less time will suffice. The Salt Lake and Southern Idaho route ought to give us our mails in an equally short time. Which of the two routes will do the better for us is to be proved by trial. Both are necessary for the sections of country which they pass through, and either of them, if managed with proper energy, will bring us our mails in a much shorter time than we have yet been able to obtain them.

What They Think of Each Other.

The editors of the State Rights Democrat and Oregon Herald have "fallen out," and begun to prefer accusations, and probably to tell the truth, against each other. From the following article, which we find in the Herald, it would appear that Oregon has gained little credit by this last importation of editors:

> Mr. Abbott, of the State Rights Democrat, in a column letter, publishes his late partner, John Traverse, as "an unmitigated scoundrel," and goes out of his way to say of said Traverse—"he came to us under the wing and quasi recommendation of Beriah Brown; and of course, we supposed he was all right." We do not know whether we are indebted to the stupidity or the malice of the writer for having our name dragged into a personal controversy with which we have no connection, in this disreputable manner. If the former, we have greatly overrated the man's discriminating judgment; and if the latter, we have quite as much mistaken the graces of his heart, for he has never received any other treatment at our hands than that of courtesy and kindness. He knows very well that we had no acquaintance with Traverse beyond the intercourse we had with him as a journeyman printer in our office, and as a printer only we spoke of him to Mr. Abbott, knowing nothing of his character or antecedents. We would have done a like service for any man in our employment. We know but little more of Mr. Abbott, and yet he holds his present position as editor and publisher of the Democrat on our recommendation. We may have done wrong in both instances, but we certainly had no personal interest to deceive any, and did not dream that we were to be held personally accountable for the future conduct of either of the men. When Traverse returned here he represented Abbott as the most unconscionable liar and thief he ever attempted to do business with, and said he had to resort to sharp practice to keep even with him. Now Abbott says "Traverse is an unmitigated scoundrel." They may both tell the truth about each other for aught we know to the contrary; but neither of them has a right to drag our name into their personal controversy, for neither has suffered any wrong at our hands.

Some of the newspapers have advocated the exclusion of Morrissey from Congress. Of course Congress will do nothing of thing of the kind. A large proportion of Morrissey's constituents are thugs and plug uglies, and it is fit that they should have one of their own kind to represent them.

STATE ITEMS.

The Teachers' Association of Marion county was to have convened at Silverton yesterday, the 26th.

The Temperance Banner is the title of a new paper to be issued at Salem about the first day of January.

The Annual Election of the Linn County Agricultural Association will be held at Albany on the 3d of January next.

Rev. Mr. Hungate of the Baptist Church at Salem was visited by a surprise party a few evenings since, and presented with a purse containing $211,60.

The Unionist says that the ladies of Salem had collected a fine library of near one hundred volumes for the State Prison convicts, which were to have been presented on Christmas day.

A new Postoffice has been established in Yamhill county. From a statement in the Courier we infer that the name of the new office is Panther Creek. O. W. Cagle is postmaster.

The officers elect of Amity Lodge, A. F. and A. M., for the current year, are H. V. V. Johnson, W. M.; L. H. Calkens, S. W.; R. J. Launceleld, J. W.; Chas. Talmage, Treasurer; Alex. Watt, Secretary.

The dwelling of Wm. Grant, of Dallas, Polk county, says the Unionist, was entirely consumed by fire on last Thursday. The loss amounted to about $500. The citizens subscribed liberally to his relief. Everything in the house was consumed.

On Friday evening the 21st inst., the annual election of Lafayette Lodge, No. 3, A. F. and A. M., resulted in the choice of Geo. H. Steward, W. M.; F. Martin, S. D. H. H. Snow, J. D.; G. H. Reese, Treasurer; Hank W. Allen Secretary and John Bird, Tyler.

A protracted meeting under the ministerial direction of Rev. Jenkins, of the M. E. Church, had been in progress at Dallas for two weeks prior to Sunday, the 16th inst. Much religious interest was manifested and a number of persons connected themselves with the church.

Jefferson Lodge No. 33, A. F. & A. M. have elected and installed the following officers for the ensuing year: A. Gray, W. M.; Chas. Miller, S. W.; John A. Conser, J. W.; H. A. Johnson, Treas.; Jacob Conser, Sec'y; Thos. Tharp, S. D.; John Looney, J. D.; J. C. Johnson, Tyler.

The Umatilla Press says that during the present season of navigation on the Columbia, the O. S. N. Co. have brought up the river two hundred thousand tons of freight, twenty-five thousand tons of which were landed at Wallula and one hundred and seventy-five thousand at Umatilla.

Mr. David Ogle has commenced to run a weekly express between Umatilla and Susanville, and unless the weather is more severe this winter than formerly, will make his regular trips leaving Umatilla every Saturday afternoon. He will deliver letters during the winter for seventy-five cents each. His route will be by way of Camas Prairie and crossing the north fork of John Day's river. We quote from the Press.

The Unionist says: About ten days ago Mr. Frank Cooper returned to this place from the Molalla, where he reported he had discovered a bank of coal. Accompanied by Mr. Carr, of this place, he went back with a wagon, and on last Saturday they arrived here with about sixteen hundred pounds of coal taken out of the newly discovered bank. Mr. Cooper says he has traced the ledge about a mile, and that it has the appearance of being inexhaustible. From what we have seen of the coal we should judge that it is of an excellent quality. The bank is about twenty miles from Oregon City.

FROM IDAHO.

We clip from the Owyhee Avalanche of the 15th inst.:

Fred. Warnkee informs us that he and others interested in the discovery ground of the Sherman ledge, Flint District, are running a tunnel from the gulch below, expecting to strike the ledge at a depth that will define the same in all respects to their satisfaction. The formation is such that a seventy-foot tunnel will tap the ledge, we believe, at an equal depth. No work has been done in the Discovery hole since last September, where the ledge shows a prospective width of over eight feet, and a silver-bearing indication that is highly satisfactory.

A tunnel of two or three hundred feet is being drove in to prospect the Forrest ledge, by an Iowa company. The two mills—respectively ten and four light stampers—in course of construction in Flint District, are expected to be ready for action early next month. There are roasting-furnaces to correspond to the capacity of either mill also being erected.

It is to be regretted that the report has gone abroad that the Cosmos Company has failed, when nothing of the kind is true. It is true that attachment suits were instituted and that the miners got unruly, but the latter were soon fully paid and the former dismissed. While some of the creditors may feel justified in their course, the sequel proves that the Company were able and willing to meet its liabilities. From all we can learn, the course pursued by the miners was very reprehensible. The workmen in the mill took the matter coolly and so far as they could defended the Superintendent and the Company's interest. There is no news here that the Company in New York have dishonored a draft or think of doing so. The mill is undergoing some repairs and will soon start up, and a new crew have been employed at the mine.

We hear it asserted that an attempt will be made to fund the indebtedness of the several counties by a legislative act this winter. We cannot speak for other counties, but do say that it would be an outrage to fund that of Owyhee. As our county affairs stand now, and with reasonable future management, there will be money in the treasury and the present indebtedness liquidated in less than one year. We really trust that the Owyhee members will oppose funding the small debt of this county. There would be neither reason, sense nor justice in funding it.

Messrs. Jackson and Burnham have been experimenting on the Vulcan ore. By assorting the rock and working the decomposed and solid portions separately, paying results have been obtained. The ore can be mined and milled at an expense not to exceed $20 per ton. The progress made by recent experiments in saving the gold and silver shows that the Vulcan ledge is rich enough to pay a large profit. Experience though costly is mostly profitable.

We have it upon good authority that the first extension north on the Poorman, embracing six hundred feet, has been sold in New York for the sum of $150,000. A newly organized company has made the purchase, and instructions to commence work are expected this winter—probably soon.

The Sheenbar mill starts up Monday next on one hundred tons of Vulcan ore, and will probably make a test of the Dashaway ledge also. This movement is under the auspices of Mr. Agnew—a New York gentleman alluded to some weeks since. He goes at the business right.

The weather has been of the very mild winter type during the past week—in fact, all of December thus far has been an agreeable surprise to many. There is eight or ten inches of snow and the mercury has not averaged much below freezing-point. The fact that there has been very mild winters in Idaho, since its settlement, is a good reason that the like may occur again.

A special election was held in Owyhee county for Assemblyman on the 11th inst., which resulted as follows: Davenport, Republican, 336; Caton, Democrat, 416. Caton's majority, 80.

The following items are from the Idaho Times of the 11th and 14th December:

As the overland mails between Boise City and Salt Lake, and between Boise City and the Dalles are being carried daily, instead of tri-weekly, the public are under obligations to Messrs. Greathouse & Co. for performing the service between this city and Boise, which they have been doing punctually for a long time, although they are as yet only allowed by Government for a tri-weekly service. We hope the "daily contract" will be let over this route as well as the others. We need a daily mail and are probably entitled to it if, indeed, we are deserving of anything whatever.

The South Boise country is said to be sadly in want of some enterprising company to run an Express from Idaho City to Rocky Bar. They would willingly pay three dollars per pound and fifty cents each for letters. We sympathize with them in their snow dens, but have not a remedy at hand to apply to their disease. Norwegians would do well to look after this opening.

The mining in the creek has not altogether been suspended as yet, notwithstanding the cold weather. Several companies are yet at work, and innumerable rockers are telling every day upon the financial resources of this country. Our population is thought to be as large as last winter, and far more reliable for industry, the more indolent and restless portion of the mining community having long since sought to improve their fortunes in the superior lights of Montana and Utah. Joy go with all deserters. When they are gone there will be so much the more left for us.

We have heard very little of late from the company formed for the purpose of putting a bed rock flume in More's Creek. We should very much like to be informed whether that substantial and much needed enterprise is likely to be commenced next summer or not.

Some of the best paying claims in the Territory are situated on the lower end of Buena Vista bar, and a large number of miners are at work drifting out the pay dirt. The water does not freeze in that vicinity, nor the winter assert its power.

The Warm Springs property, situated on Buena Vista Bar, opposite Idaho City, on Saturday last sold at sheriff's sale for three thousand, one hundred and fifty dollars. It was bid in for Mr. R. Turner, one of the former proprietors, and is considered to be worth considerable more than the above named amount.

The Mines of the Palouse.

The following letter to the Walla Walla Statesman gives some information in regard to the newly discovered mines on the head waters of the Palouse river:

> GOLD CREEK, Nov. 31, 1866.
> Thinking you would like to learn what is going on in this remote corner of Idaho, I will attempt to give you a passing glance at this young mining camp; it is a distance of about one hundred and ten miles from Walla Walla, by the way of Kentuck ferry on Snake River, and a very good natural trail from the ferry. On traveling from Walla Walla after he crosses Snake River, all he has to do is to keep what is known as Camas Bute constantly in front until he reaches Wagner's Ranch, on the Palouse, then the road is very plain and good to this camp. This camp now comprises between seventy-five and a hundred men; all are at work opening their claims. As yet the weather is quite pleasant. There are only three claims now open, and all are paying well. Up to this time, most of the men that have had claims on this creek, have been prospecting for something better, or I might say, a big thing. As most all concur in the opinion that there are very rich diggings near here; everything indicates it; the gold is both coarse and fine. It is not an uncommon thing to pick up pieces from $2 50 to $10. The gold is chiefly on the bed-rock.
> There is, as usual, a town started, called Hanksville, which more properly ought to be called Big Hog'em. There is a store with a good assortment of miners' goods, kept by Anderson & Co. All that are here now have good comfortable cabins, and intend to winter in the mines. No doubt you have heard very poor accounts of this camp, for no other reason than at the time it was made known in Lewiston, there was a grand rush from that place of merchants, tailors, blacksmiths, bummers, saloon keepers, hotel keepers and mechanics. Not one brought a pick, pan or shovel, and all expected another Florence; they never prospected, and all went back, after taking up the whole country, never to return, without some poor hard working miner should strike it rich on or near their ground. It is the opinion of all that are here, that with a full head of water and ten hours to work, that the ground would pay from eight dollars to an ounce per day, and gold worth $18 per ounce, and being near the Walla Walla market. Compare the cost of living in this camp with any other and you will see that four dollars per day is better here than eight at a greater distance. There is another creek about fifteen miles from here, called Goat Creek, that promises to be as good as this. There were about thirty men working there eight days ago with good prospects.
> There has been some rich float quartz found in this vicinity, which Mr. Hurly has tested. Quite a number of ledges are taken up. There is plenty of good white pine and cedar on the creek.
> I might state that one-fourth interest in the discovery claim sold recently for $600 in coin, under pressing circumstances. Two of the company had a quarrel between them and fought with an ax. The wounds however, proved slight but the party using the ax had to leave, therefore sold his interest for $600.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

CALLAHAN'S RANCH, Dec. 26.

Mr. McBride has just reached here from the summit of Scott Mountain. He reports the snow on the summit about twelve feet deep. Carr and party had succeeded in getting down the mountain on the south side some two miles, when they met Smith and others, from the New York House. They report very high water in the Sacramento Valley. Much property has been destroyed, and many bridges carried away. There is but little snow in Trinity Valley. No mails have reached the New York House since the commencement of the storm, owing to the high water below. Bell's bridge, over Clear creek, and the bridge over Cottonwood have been carried away. The storm of last night and to-day has destroyed all that has been done towards opening the trail over the mountain. Carr and party had got all the back mail to the summit. Eight hundred or one thousand lbs. of paper mail yet remains about one mile and a half beyond the summit.

Death of Judge Stratton.

SALEM, Dec. 26.

Judge R. E. Stratton died at Eugene City at 7:35 this evening.

FROM PUGET SOUND.

The Pacific Tribune of the 22d ult. contains the following items:

Hon. Leander Holmes informs us that he has succeeded in getting stumpage rates reduced to 25 cents per thousand.

A correspondent writing from Seabeck, under date of Dec. 16th, says a sad accident occurred at the Seabeck mill on the 13th inst., when a man by the name of Frederick Fowler had all the fingers of his left hand sawed off. Mr. Fowler was engaged in bolting slabs the proper thickness for lath, and in pulling a bolt through the saw it caught, and suddenly jerking back drew his hand across the saw, severing the fingers. The accident occurred at 11 o'clock A. M., and half a dozen men manned a boat, and at 6 that evening had him to Port Townsend, where Dr. O'Brien dressed the wound.

At the special election recently held in Kitsap county, to fill vacancy in the Legislature, five votes were cast for a negro. The votes were cast by Copperheads, and they voted for the negro, as he was the best man of the lot. Now, we should like to have our Copperhead neighbor explain to us who are the negro worshippers in this Territory.

We are informed that our model Secretary is exerting himself to get a recommendation to sustain himself before Congress, and to that end is seeking the assistance of every member of the Legislature that will endorse him, and has even had the impudence to appeal to Union men also. His term expires in February next, and he realizes that he will need bolstering up to get the reappointment, but the assurance of asking Union men to endorse such as he, is decidedly cool. He thus acknowledges a want of confidence in his Copperhead-Johnson friends, and appeals to Union men to support him as he is about to be thrown overboard. The Copperheads and the few renegade Republicans doubtless will do it, but we question whether any Union man will endorse him on his record since the Copperhead Philadelphia Convention.

GOLD DUST SWINDLES.—A highly respectable gentleman, largely engaged in business operations in the Boise country, informs us that there is a regularly organized system of swindling in vogue all through the mining districts, in which packers and teamsters are the principal sufferers. The practice is to pay freight bills in dust, and for this purpose unprincipled traders are in the habit of procuring the various descriptions of dust known as "battery," "doctored," or "mixed," all of which is passed off on the teamster or packer as "Boise dust," at the arbitrary rate of $16 per ounce, when probably it is worth less than $8. In this way the unprincipled trader enjoys great advantages over the honest dealer, and when it comes to the more bulky staple goods is always able to undersell the merchant who pays his freight bills in good clean dust. As a remedy for this evil, our informant suggests that teamsters and packers in all cases stipulate that freight bills be paid either in gold bars, currency or coin. A rule of this kind, rigidly adhered to, would leave the gold dust operators without any inducement to the practice of their nefarious calling. According to the information before us, the business of "doctoring" gold dust is carried on to a great extent in the Boise Basin, and men are engaged in it from, whom we have a right to expect better things. This gold dust nuisance has thus attained a magnitude that renders it impossible any longer to ignore it, and it becomes merchants, packers, teamsters and all honest men to unite in putting it down.—Walla Walla Statesman.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR!—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 89 First Street, (Post Office Block) would call attention to the fact that it is customary to present those you call on New Year's Day with your PICTURE. Now those who are not supplied with CARTES DE VISITE, AMBROTYPES, SUN PEARLS, and other specimens of PHOTOGRAPHIC ART would do well to call at their GALLERY at once. Negatives taken in any kind of weather.

PICTURE GALLERY.—W. R. JONES having taken the gallery corner of Front and Morrison streets, Portland, would announce to the public that he is taking PHOTOGRAPHS from Locket to Life size, AMBROTYPES, MELAINOTYPES, SUN PEARLS, and CARTE DE VISITE, plain or enameled, in the best style of the art. If you want card pictures with the most beautiful enamel, at lower prices than can be had in the city or State, go to JONES' GALLERY, corner of Front and Morrison. dec17d3m2p

RECOMMENDS HIMSELF
AS. E. SCHLESINGER

The Daily Oregonian.

POLICE COURT.—In Police Court before Judge Hoffman, yesterday, appeared James Vance, upon a charge of disorderly and riotous conduct. The offence was committed upon Morrison street the evening previous. Vance was arrested and locked up until yesterday morning, when he was brought into court and plead guilty. He was fined $10 and costs.

William Sweeney was arrested at the same time and upon the same charge. He asked for time, and was allowed until this morning to plead.

C. Green was arrested for drunken and disorderly conduct; as he had passed one night in the city jail he was fined $5 and costs.

William Connor, charged with the crime of burglary, in entering Arrigoni's hotel on the evening of the 23d inst., and entering the room of some of the guests of the same and secreting himself under the bed. Lieut. Kestler testified that he and Capt. Barry had occupied room No. 14 for several days; that on the evening of the 23d he had left his room in the afternoon, locking the door on leaving; that at half past 9 o'clock he took his light and went to his room for the purpose of retiring for the night, when, on unlocking the door and searching the room, he found the defendant lying under the bed. He called some of the employes of the house and the man was taken down to the office and examined, but he could give no satisfactory explanation of his presence in the room. Connor said he had made a mistake, and protested that he was an honest man. Capt. Barry testified substantially the same as the evidence given by Lieut. Kestler. The prisoner made the statement that on the afternoon in question he was drunk and did not know what he was doing. He did not know how he got into the room. He supposed that he was too drunk to get on the bed, and that he was as likely to get under it as upon it. He did not know anything about it until they awoke him and took him down stairs. They questioned him for awhile and then let him go.

The prisoner was then arraigned upon a charge of larceny, in stealing four frames of photographs from Mr. Jones' Gallery, corner of Morrison and Front streets. The evidence in the case was that on Saturday evening Mr. Jones missed the pictures from his gallery, and the pictures shown in Court he identified as his property. Mr. Pres. Black and Mrs. Bloom testified that on Saturday evening the prisoner offered the pictures for sale to them. He asked Mrs. Bloom $20 for them, and finally said he would take $5. He asked Mr. Black to give him a dollar for them, and when refused said he would take "four bits." On this being refused he wanted a drink for them; and failing in this, went off in disgust, leaving the pictures.

He was then arraigned upon a second charge of larceny, in stealing from Wasserman & Co. a rocking-horse. Mr. George Pratt testified that on Saturday evening the 22d inst., he was in the tailor shop of Mr. Marks, and that while there the man Connor came into the shop and said that he was a tailor, was broke and wanted work. Marks told him to come to the shop on Monday and he would give him work. Connor then said he wanted to sell the horse for $10. When asked where he obtained it, said he brought it from Dublin. Pratt finally bought the horse for one dollar. Mr. Marks substantiated this testimony. Mr. Lewis identified the property and said it was taken from the front of the store on Saturday evening.

Connor was then arraigned upon another charge of larceny in stealing a hat from the store of H. W. Hyman—a witness testified that the prisoner sold the hat to him on Saturday evening at the Shakspeare Hotel for seventy-five cents. M. Hyman identified the hat as his property. The prisoner was committed for trial upon the charge of [illegible]ry. He will appear before the court this morning and receive the sentence of the court in the charges for larceny.

James Vance, upon a State charge of assault and battery, was admitted to bail in the sum of $100, for appearance this morning.

A [illegible].—We are informed that on Christmas night a burglar entered the house of Mrs. Stearns, and proceeded up stairs to the sleeping apartments in search of [illegible]. While engaged in searching the room, the noise made by a gentleman arising in an adjoining room, alarmed the scoundrel, who decamped down the stairs at a rapid rate, without having obtained any remuneration for his trouble. The gentleman who alarmed him, appeared in the hall with a candle in time to see him run out of the hall door. After his departure a skeleton key was found in the hall, which would open any door in the house. If he will return and prove property, he can no doubt reclaim his lost key. Portland seems to be improving. From the present appearance we certainly have acquired a valuable addition to our society, composed of active, enterprising men.

[illegible] IMMERSION.—About 10 o'clock last evening as a [illegible] was walking upon the wharf in the rear of Bowling & Beebe's store, he lost his bearings or made a [illegible]lation of some kind, which resulted in his walking off the wharf. He swam around trying to find his way out, but as the night was dark and the water cold, under these discouraging circumstances he gave it up and [illegible] lustily for help. Assistance soon arrived; and he was fished out in a damaged condition. He remarked that while on his journey "he thought he never was going to light," and that his fear was that he would fall on something "hard." His fears were calmed. On "lighting" he found the place as soft as he could wish.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT.—Mr. Walker called upon us yesterday, and from him we learn that the dredger is laid up for the present, and the workmen temporarily discharged until such time as the work now suspended on the account of high water, can be again resumed. Mr. Walker has established a tide guage at the mouth of the river and another at Swan Island bar. Yesterday he established a third at Couch & Flanders' wharf. The water is now falling rapidly, and if it continues to do so for any considerable length of time, operations with the dredger will be again resumed. We understand that there is but about 400 feet more required to complete the channel through Swan Island bar.

BABY LEFT.—On Christmas morning, as the Oregon City boat was upon the eve of starting, a lady and gentleman rushed down the wharf and went on board the boat, and were no doubt, congratulating themselves that they were in time, when suddenly, "a change came over the spirit of their dream;" they remembered that they had forgotten their baby and left it at their hotel. The boat was [illegible], and while pater familias rushed off to the hotel where the little innocent was sleeping, all unconscious of its [illegible] desertion.

WALKED OFF.—We are informed that a gentleman by the name of Wilson, on the evening of the 25th inst., while walking on Front street walked off the bridge. He was much bruised and shaken but sustained no serious injury. We understand that the railing is defective. This should be looked to, and the place secured so the accident cannot occur again. If we remember right there is a stipulation providing for a good and safe way for passengers while the work is being done, and the contractors are held responsible.

ALAS POOR YORICK.—"That beggar" has gone at last, and it is rumored that his retreating form was wrapped in another man's cloak and his shapely feet clad in boots which were not his own.—Oregon Statesman.

The fellow mentioned above, and who now calls himself "Black," visited this city some two years ago, as will be remembered by some of our charitably disposed citizens. He is now in Portland.

FESTIVAL.—A Sundayschool festival was held last evening at the Presbyterian Church; although the weather was unfavorable the attendance was large and "all went merry as a marriage bell." Much interest seems to be taken by the community in this matter, and probably at no previous time has the Sundayschools of the city been in as flourishing a condition.

[illegible].—Owing to the non-arrival of the steamer from San Francisco, on which a large number of fancy [illegible] for the intended masquerade ball to have taken place to-night, were expected, it becomes necessary for the committee to postpone the ball until Tuesday, the 1st of January next.

[illegible] I. O. O. F.—At the last session of Ellison [illegible], I. O. O. F., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Wm. Dierdorff, C. P.; E. [illegible], H. P.; O. W. Ballard, S. W.; S. H. Lyon, J. W.; [illegible], Scribe, and C. Bills, Treasurer.

THE HUNT.—The steamer Wilson G. Hunt took on [illegible] morning's trip, 120 head of fine stock cattle, [illegible] for the Northern country. There was no connection above the Dalles, no letters, no express, no passengers, no papers and no news.

PORTLAND R. A. CHAPTER No. 3.—The regular convocation will be held this evening at 6½ o'clock precisely for [illegible] of officers. Members and sojourning companions are cordially invited to attend punctually at the hour [illegible].

[illegible] PRODUCE.—The steamer Alert brought last [illegible] from Oregon City, 5 half bbls butter, 234 sacks wheat, 209 qr sacks flour, 1 cylinder, 3 box mdse, 1 [illegible], 22 hogs and 61 boxes apples.

ANOTHER TREE GONE.—We were the recipients of the cake, etc., usual on such occasions, in honor of the [illegible] of Mr. Geo. H. Himes. "Go thou and do likewise."

[illegible].—Attention is called to the special [illegible] of Ellison Encampment No. 1, I. O. O. F., on Friday next at 7 o'clock P. M.

[illegible] PRODUCE.—The morning boat from Oregon City brought down a large lot of hay, oats, flour and apples.

[illegible].—At the time of going to press, the steamer had not been telegraphed. They are hourly looked for.

[illegible].—Read the advertisement of Stone & Norman, and see how easily sensible questions are answered.

THE WINTER.—All the indications thus far point to a remarkably mild winter. In this Valley the temperature thus far has been that of early fall, and at this writing the Valley is clear of snow. From Colville, we learn that there has been little or no snow as yet, and that the weather is most delightfully pleasant. In the mountains [illegible] snow has fallen, but the valleys everywhere are free from the wintry garb. In such mild weather, stock as a matter of course thrives, and packers are not compelled to buy feed for their animals. This is the present condition of the weather—possibly January will tell a different tale.—W. W. Statesman.

MASQUERADE.—The finest thing of the season will be the [illegible] ball, on the 1st of January. The steamer did not arrive as expected, but this makes no difference; all can go to Harman Bros. and procure a perfect outfit.

AT PRIVATE SALE.—Mr. Cohen having sold at auction the greater part of his stock of jewelry, will dispose of the balance on very favorable terms at private sale, until New Year. He has yet on hand a choice lot of ladies' jewelry, such as finger and ear rings, breast-pins, neck chains, bracelets, etc.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—WEIL BROS have a large and varied assortment of fine dress goods—such as Moire antique silk dresses, French and Irish poplins, etc.—which they are selling off at cost, affording an excellent opportunity for the purchase of HOLIDAY PRESENTS. They also offer, at cost, the choicest stock of custom-made clothing and Gents' furnishing goods.

Ellison Encampment No. 1, I. O. O. F.—There will be a special meeting on Friday next, Dec. 28th, at 7 P. M. By order of the C. P.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

Island Groups in the Pacific Ocean

The most remarkable groups north of the equator are the Sandwich Ladrone, Caroline and Pelew Islands, and the clusters known as Radack and Ralick Chains South of the equator we find besides the Galapagos, a group styled the Paumota, or Low Archipelago the well known Marquesas, Society Friendly, and Fiji Islands, New Hebrides, New Caledonia, New Britain, Navigator's Island, Louisiade group Norfolk Islands and many others which we need not enumerate, but which are frequently referred to in books of travel in the South Seas

The Sandwich Islands are the most important of the Polynesian groups Their situation mid way between the American and Asiatic shores and their natural formation admirably adapt them for a great commercial station, and they are rapidly emerging from their barbarous condition into civilization. They are of volcanic origin, and are thirteen in number, the eight largest being Hawaii (or Owyhee), Maui, Molokai Oahu, Kauai, Lanai Tahaurawe, and Nihau Hawaii, the largest of the group, is of a triangular shape, and about one hundred miles long by eighty wide at the broadest part. The interior is a lofty table land above eight thousand feet above the sea level, and of which very little is known On the edges of this plateau are the active volcano Mauna Huararai (the last eruption of which occurred in 1800) 10 000 feet high, and the extinct volcanoes Mauna Kea (13,587), and Mauna Loa (13,175) On the southern declivity of the table-land is the remarkable volcano, Kilauea, which is not a conical peak, but a huge pit or depression containing two lakes of boiling lava, which some times spouts up to the hight of nearly seventy feet The fiery stream flows through a wide abyss into the sea Above this seething cauldron a crater suddenly appeared in 1855, and the red hot lava continued to flow for many months The low lands near the coast are fertile and beautifully wooded On the eastern shore is Byron Bay, a spacious harbor, and on the western coast the harbors of Tawaihae and Karakakoa, where Captain Cook, who discovered the islands, was killed in 1779 The principal port in the Sandwich Islands is Honolulu, in the island of Oahu A number of foreign merchants have settled there, and a thriving little town is the result. American influence is predominant in the councils of the native king, and annexation may be looming in the future.

The Caroline and the Pelew Islands consist of a vast number of small islands of coral formation, and further east are the Ralick and Radack groups, a crowd of islets also raised by the indefatigable polypes The Caroline Islands were discovered in 1686, and were named in honor of Charles the Second of Spain The natives are very skillful navigators To the north of these groups are the Marianne or Ladrone Islands, of volcanic formation, some peaks attaining an elevation of two thousand feet. The islands are of great fertility and beauty. Magellan gave the name of the Ladrones, or "Thieves' Islands," and the Spanish settlers from the Philippine Islands showed their detestation of immorality by killing off the natives as soon as possible

South of the equator, between the one hundred and thirtieth and one hundred and fiftieth parallels of longitude, is the Paumota Archipelago, an immense number of coral islands and reefs very few of which are inhabited The Gambier Islands, a little to the southeast, are of volcanic origin, as is also Pitcairn's Island, one of the most interesting spots in the Pacific Hither the mutineers of the Bounty drifted, and there they established, with their Tahitian wives, a small community Reflection and solitude subdued their fierce natures, and Adams, the leader of the mutiny, became the patriarch of the band When, years afterwards, a British ship visited the little island, a peaceful, virtuous family was found, living in the most delightful accord, and leading an industrious and pure life. In 1855, the descendants of the mutineers, who had outgrown the limits of their little islands (only two and a half miles long by one broad), were removed, at their own request, to Norfolk Island (between Australia and New Zealand), once the notorious depot for convicts, till the accumulated horrors of the place (such as we dare not detail) compelled the home government to break up the establishment.

The Marquesas were discovered by the Spanish in 1595 They are all mountainous, and very picturesque. The largest island, Nukahiva, has an area of two hundred square miles. The natives are generally described as being the most bloodthirsty in the Pacific It is fair, however, to say that some travelers rather soften the picture.

The Society Islands, so named by Captain Cook in honor of the Royal Society of London, consists of two groups, the most easterly of which is sometimes named the Georgian Islands The largest and most noticeable is Tahiti (or Otaheite), which is about thirty five miles long, and consists of two peninsulas, united by a very narrow isthmus There are mountain masses in the interior, some of the peaks being nearly eight thousand feet above the sea level, The climate is mild and vegetation luxuriant. There are good harbors much frequented by vessels, especially whalers The island was discovered by the Spanish in 1606, but the present name was given by Cook from a native appellation In 1816, the King, Pomare, embraced Christianity, and abolished infanticide, human sacrifices, and other barbarous practices The morals of the natives, especially of the female part, have much improved, and the present Queen, Pomare, is anxious to adopt European habits.

Cook's Islands, the chief of which is Raotonga, are of volcanic origin. The natives have generally adopted Christianity.

Nearly a thousand miles to the West of Cook's Islands are the Friendly Islands—so named by Cook from the friendly reception he experienced—consisting of three groups the Vavau in the North, Hapai, in the center, and the Tonga-taboo to the Southward. There are supposed to be one hundred and fifty islets in the group On the Southern side of Vavau is the spacious harbor of Curtis Sound, one of the safest anchorages in the Pacific All the islands are very fertile, and the inhabitants, many of whom profess Christianity, number about 200,000.

The Fiji Islands (which have been much talked about lately) lie about three hundred miles to the northwest of the group just noticed They consist of nearly three hundred picturesque and fertile islands, the largest of which are Vania Levu, ninety-five miles long and nearly thirty broad, and Viti Levu, eighty five miles long and forty broad All these islands are inhabited by a very energetic but savage race, addicted to canibalism, excellent specimens of those epicures who, according to Sidney Smith, enjoyed a roasted missionary for a side-dish It is thought, however, that the race is capable of great development.

The New Hebrides is a group still further to the west, of volcanic origin, but of extraordinary fertility The chain of islands extends for about four hundred miles The natives are as yet barbarous, and at Erromango, one of the group, John Williams, a distinguished missionary, was barbarously murdered about twenty years ago.

New Caledonia, now a French Colony, lies to the southwest of the Hebrides. It is about two hundred miles long by twenty five wide and nearly surrounded by a coral reef. The inhabitants are a fine race of men, and the natural advantages of the island for a commercial depot are numerous

Ethnologists divide the inhabitants of Polynesia into two classes The first, generally occupying the most westerly islands, has an affinity with the Papuan negroes, the stature is short, the skin nearly black, and the hair crisped or curly. The other race has more affinity with the Malays and American aborigines They are tall, well proportioned, and of a dark olive complexion. The features are regular, the nose straight, and the facial angle good The hair too, is black or brown, and quite straight

A Mysterious $1,000 Note —The Baltimore Sun tells a curious story of a $1,000 note which some years since mysteriously came into the possession of a Mr Joseph Cobb of that city In the year 1838, it appears, Mr Cobb was called on by a lad to change a $10 note Upon looking at it he discovered it was a genuine $1,000 bill, and he was curious to know something more about it. So great a mistake in the denomination of a note was not ordinarily made He retained it for inquiry, and then ascertained that it had been offered to a lady who conducted the millinery business, by a negro woman, in pay for some articles That somebody was the loser to that amount seemed almost certain Mr Cobb under the circumstances, felt himself justifiable in retaining the note, so as to find the owner He advertised it at various times for four years and never had a call for it Tired of being its custodian, in February, 1842, he deposited in the city treasury, with $80 40 interest in trust for the benefit of the owner, if he should ever be found Efforts have been made, at one time or another by parties in the way of administration or as descendants of the colored woman, long since deceased to get possession of it, but without effect Since the time of deposit with the city the $1,080 40 have been laying in the city treasury drawing interest, and at this time the sum amounts to near $3,000. This, by the action of the City Council within a day or two past it has been determined shall be appropriated to the use of the Union Orphan Asylum Thus the mysterious note is finally disposed of In addition to the singularity of the fact that Mr Cobb never found a legal claimant for the note, notwithstanding his repeated advertisements it seems that the colored woman, who presented it to pay a bill, never even appeared to make a claim for it

A Curious Scandal Case—Both Engineers Hoist by their own Petards —It is not often that I have any scandal for you but here is a bit about a certain Mrs N—— whom you may see daily driving through the streets at a furious pace, with her meek eyed husband at her side his face bearing the impress of fear in every feature He would remind you of Mr —— Somebody's picture of despair, if the ludicrous were not blended quite so strong with affright Mrs N——, however is a stunner—a little bit manny but a magnificent creature and drives her phaeton well though she does hold the reins a little too tightly perhaps Imagine then, if you can her indignation when she heard for the first time that Mr N—— had accepted an invitation to sup at Brown's, a jolly fellow of his bachelor days

"Only ourselves you know and Jones and Robinson" had said Brown, and Mr N—— accepted not without misgivings however for he knew what he would have to encounter when he communicated his rash promise to Mrs N—— As fate would have it his wife looked awfully splendid and fierce that night. Between love and fear his tongue refused to speak the words He would wait till the next morning—there was no hurry In a word, he did not tell her at all, and it was by the merest chance, of course that she heard of it

And so sir, I hear that you are going to sup per with that horrible man Mr Brown, to morrow?"

"I certainly am invited, my dear"

"And what do you propose doing Mr N——?"

"To accept the invitation, of course, my dear"

"Then, of course you expect me to accompany you?"

"To a bachelor's supper party, my dear? Im possible"

"Then you don't go that's all my dear"

And Mrs N—— closed her mouth and spoke again no more that evening Mr N—— resolved that he would be master this time, and in silence laid his plans The day came No more had been said on either side—nothing relative to the subject was said now Yet, I am reluctantly compelled to record the fact that Mr Brown and his friends were disappointed of their friend N——'s company that night

"That she —— would not let him come," said one

"I only saw him this morning," said Brown, "and he promised to be here."

"What a lark, if we called on him"

"Let us," say all,

And they did so

A thundering knock N——'s street door was opened to Brown, Jones and Robinson, and they were shown into the dining room where Mr and Mrs N—— sat immovable on their chairs—fast asleep

They had ministered strong opiate to each other unawares The wife to keep the husband at home —the husband to quiet the wife

Rev. John Pierpont at the Club —The death of this venerable gentleman calls to mind a little history related to the writer by Paul Allen an eccentric poet and editor in Baltimore who had the honor of first nominating General Jackson for the Presidency Mr Pierpont and John Neal were partners in the dry goods business in that city about 1810-19 While thus engaged they formed, with Allen and Dr Watkins, who was afterward employed at the Treasury Department in Washington, and three other literary wits, what they called the "Delphian Club," which met one evening of each week for literary exercises and entertainment, their number being strictly confined to seven Mr Pierpont was the life of these meetings, which were productive to rare enjoyment to all members One evening it was among their exercises to produce four lines of the sweetest poetry, to convey the prettiest idea, and contain the least sense and Dr Pierpont excelled all the others in this performance These were his lines

> "Pleasure comes in car of purple,
> Purple car that's drawn by doves
> Doves that both the car and her pull,
> Pull where er the zephyr moves"

Death of a Veteran Journalist —John Wilson Osborn, who died at Greencastle, Indiana, on the 12th of November, was a veteran journalist He served his apprenticeship as a printer with Wilcox, of the Upper Canada Guardian, followed his employer into the American army in 1812, in 1817 he went to Indiana, in 1823, removed to Greencastle, where he founded the Western Register, the first paper published there, and eleven years after he went to Greencastle, he established the Plowboy and Temperance Advocate In 1841 he was elected State Printer, and retired from active labor at the end of his term of office, but continued to be a frequent contributor to the various newspapers of the State
